

speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by RVREVO - 06 Oct 2015 13:28

Added a couple more to the collection. The front two.

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by RoutemasterNL - 06 Oct 2015 13:49

Nice additions, how many do you have now Richard?

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by Keesie - 06 Oct 2015 17:08

Very good additions, same question as Theo: how many do you have? Are you after Minis especially? What about restoring them?

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by RVREVO - 06 Oct 2015 18:59

Not as many as I should have.

I find them easy to sell.

I like some of the Corgi, these old Mettoys, but the modern ones are easier to let go.

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by RVREVO - 09 Oct 2015 19:12

Added a rare mini cooper s. Look it up, a mint condition model is valued in a ridiculous amount.

Mine ofcourse is well under the hundred as is my habit.

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by Nobleco - 09 Oct 2015 19:20

Nice catch and good addition to your mini collection

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by TheRollerman - 09 Oct 2015 21:29

That is a rare model Richard and in a very displayable condition. These and the matching Blue version are always in Three figure sums of Money.

The Blue version can have the Red or Cream seats, but the Yellow version always seems to have the Red seats.

Well done for adding this to your ever growing collection. One Day we will need to see a group shot of many of your models...!

Rollerman.

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by RVREVO - 10 Oct 2015 00:06

Indeed you shall.

Currently added to the transporters.

I think my theme focus on Corgi is the Mettoy Era.

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by RVREVO - 10 Oct 2015 00:23

Might need some jewels for most of the minis that need them

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by Keesie - 10 Oct 2015 02:24

With us, at the Action shops, you can buy sticker-sheets with 'diamonds'. I use them for headlights.

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by RVREVO - 10 Oct 2015 02:27

Yes, little further away, Steve Flowers model supplies in the UK works well as well.

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by Nobleco - 10 Oct 2015 15:23

Yes and his are not flat backed nor stick on. Glue in place with gold or silver backing.

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by Keesie - 11 Oct 2015 09:38

Here some of my 'rarer' ones.

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by RVREVO - 11 Oct 2015 10:29

Very pretty, keesie.

got 4 that can compete in uniqueness

=====

Re: speaking of classic corgi minis

Posted by RVREVO - 11 Oct 2015 10:38

Toy collector project

=====