

Large scale Minichamps

Posted by Ecclesley - 09 Jan 2017 14:43

---

These two Bentley R Type Continentals by Minichamps are 1/18 scale, and I must say they have excellent detail.

---

Re: Large scale Minichamps

Posted by RoutemasterNL - 09 Jan 2017 15:23

These really look the part. And all these opening features.

+ that Mulliner sticker, Minichamps have really an eye for detail

---

Re: Large scale Minichamps

Posted by Tick - 10 Jan 2017 13:01

They are beautiful

---

Re: Large scale Minichamps

Posted by CollectorandrestorerMark - 10 Jan 2017 15:47

Fabulous pair!

=====

Re: Large scale Minichamps

Posted by Ecclesley - 10 Jan 2017 16:06

---

Also available in black (not mine):

=====

Re: Large scale Minichamps

Posted by GunnerJim - 13 Jan 2017 16:45

---

Even though Minichamps are expensive. I do believe there is great value with Minichamps detail and design thus creating superb models.

=====

Re: Large scale Minichamps

Posted by Ecclesley - 14 Jan 2017 00:38

---

GunnerJim wrote:

Even though Minichamps are expensive. I do believe there is great value with Minichamps detail and design thus creating superb models.

They are not cheap, their original prices hover between 225 and 250 Euros but, as always, bargains are to be found. I bought them at 50% discount, which is still a lot of money but worth every penny.

Re: Large scale Minichamps

Posted by GunnerJim - 14 Jan 2017 04:04

I have had my eye on one of their Land Rover 1948 vintage.

Re: Large scale Minichamps

Posted by Ecclesley - 14 Jan 2017 05:44

GunnerJim wrote:

I have had my eye on one of their Land Rover 1948 vintage.

With a 15% discount this one € 101.

Re: Large scale Minichamps

Posted by GunnerJim - 14 Jan 2017 15:06

---

So far I have found that Poland is far the cheapest at $170 AUD followed by China at $180 AUD where both includes the postal charge to Australia are tempting at least.

The best price was from Japan including free postage costs at a staggering $1382 AUD. I think the seller must have added an extra key somewhere.

=====