

A couple new Dinkys....

Posted by Krieglok - 18 Feb 2017 07:35

---

I picked up a Morris Oxford 40G in green and a 259 Fire Brigade truck. The car is in decent condition and the Fire truck is a bit beat up, paint wise, but complete and solid. I have a penchant for collecting British pattern fire apparatus no matter the condition as long as it is complete...

I really don't know much about Dinkys, but I like them, especially Fire and Military models...

Tom

=====

Re: A couple new Dinkys....

Posted by RoutemasterNL - 18 Feb 2017 10:16

---

These are good finds. I am in the process of chopping up a 259 fire truck and making a car transporter out of it.

=====

Re: A couple new Dinkys....

Posted by Krieglok - 18 Feb 2017 20:35

---

Funny, I owned two real antique fire engines in the past. At the time, classic car collectors would buy old fire engines due to their old age but low mileage. They usually converted them into flat beds or car carriers for their vintage autos. They were contenders when it came to purchasing old fire apparatus as their &quot;repurposing&quot; activities drove up the prices!

tom

=====