

New Hot Pursuit series.

Posted by oldtruck56 - 24 Aug 2011 14:23

Hot Pursuit; GreenLight's offering of past and present law enforcement vehicles, has been flying off the shelves since its first release in Summer 2009. Retailers reorder in determination to have the supply when demand comes 'a knocking and the collectors are wild with excitement as the need to complete a collection springs them off their feet and into the closest GreenLight dealer. If this sounds familiar of your own actions when Hot Pursuit announces a new release, well then join the rest of us and get in line...quickly!

"Collectible police cars, because of their geographical marking nature" explains Lead Designer, Joel Dale "they can communicate on a personal level, and the story that they tell is different to each collector that has them in their collection." Whether you are passionate for the series because you are a law enforcement enthusiast or operate on a more specific interest, Hot Pursuit pulls the attention of every collector. The fact that they are high quality, authentically replicated and scaled to perfection is a mighty nice added bonus.

Series 8 includes six cars from a wide range of departments and offices, small counties, townships, capitals and state highway. Rounding off Series 8 is the new Saw these a while back. Love the Camaro and K-9 unit. Anxiously awaiting the 2012 Charger, complete with side-view mirrors. Ahhh...the simple things.
