

The Low Loader Load

Posted by Keesie - 30 Jun 2019 13:03

---

So, what to place on the Low Loader? Two car models do not fit, only one.

Of course, a Priestman Earth Digger!!!! I have several oldies in my scrap, and I choose the worst one.

=====

Re: The Low Loader Load

Posted by Nobleco - 02 Jul 2019 17:34

---

Press on nuts is one of the names for what you have on the Corgi Cub shovel.

=====

Re: The Low Loader Load

Posted by Keesie - 24 Jul 2019 14:02

---

Ah, Rivera is in. What will the expert say?

=====

Re: The Low Loader Load

Posted by rivera - 24 Jul 2019 15:28

---

Thanks for calling me an expert, but for what?

Well, I would use the circlips because I have that special plier for it. I also restore motorcycles that's why I bought it.

www.pollin.de/p/sicherungsring-zange-500366

But you can not get some pressure on it like the press on circlips or nuts Jim mentioned. Maybe use a washer under it.

---

Re: The Low Loader Load

Posted by Keesie - 24 Jul 2019 16:10

---

I noticed you watched 'my' thread more than 3 weeks ago, but you did not add anything. So therefore, because you were in earlier today, I had to trigger you to say something, in which I succeeded. I than had to call you an expert, because the earth digger in your avatar.....

Re: The Low Loader Load

Posted by Keesie - 24 Jul 2019 16:12

---

Thanks for the advice, but thing is, I think this is the only model on which Corgi used this circlip. So no point in buying a tool just for that purpose. No room for a washer, because there is a very thin groove in which the clip rests.

=====

Re: The Low Loader Load

Posted by Nobleco - 24 Jul 2019 17:15

---

The one I did had no washer under and fit tight like a glove.

=====

Re: The Low Loader Load

Posted by Keesie - 27 Jul 2019 10:26

---

So.....you are NOT an expert.....

=====

Re: The Low Loader Load

Posted by rivera - 28 Jul 2019 07:32

---

Well, the Matchbox Ruston shovel is much simpler in construction, all riveted.

Maybe I am an expert in rivet lookalikes..

=====

Re: The Low Loader Load

Posted by Keesie - 28 Jul 2019 07:48

---

Why don't you make a new thread with that model, would be interesting for some.

=====