Hi guys,

I logged in, to see it is almost a month ago since my last contribution. Sorry for that, as you are not used to that.....haha. Several things happened so I had my mind on other things. Firstly, wintertime here, so no restos. Also we have two kittens here, Chip and Dale. They are now exactly 6 months old, and they had to be operated. The female was done a few days ago, so now healing. After that I can show them the outside world.....when this storm has calmed down. Then our central heating system gave up. The mechanic is installing a new one now. There is more.....

Very nice and they are growing fast. Go for a car ride Dad, huh, can we, can we???

The one cat looks ready to roll with you on your trip with that Hilux for your customer. Enjoy your drive. Rained like crazy here last night but it sunny now. Will rain and thunder and lightening later today and tonight.
