Thanks guys. This was a good choice of colors you suggested Theo.

The only thing I left out of this post was the making of the suspension spring like on the Rambler Cross Country. I didn't think it was necessary.

On to the next project.

Another nice job Jim and a colour in keeping with real cars.

In answer to your advert pop up I experienced it just popped up whenever I moved my cursor over the pictures but before posting this, I tried it and it did not appear so a timed for display bug crept in and has now gone.

Thank you Kevin. It is a very nice combination indeed.

The explanation on the pop ups sound weird but I don't have mine blocked by my browser. It is something called 'Privacy Badger'. It comes with my Firefox browser as an add on and is new.

Blocks sites from following me around the internet and will not let various trackers follow me but also Google and Facebook from following me around too. Works really well. This even though a secure ties has nine different sites that try to follow people here.. All are blocked from doing that now. I can adjust it to. I block completely a site, stop it from putting cookies on me during my visit here (that is how they get our pictures) or allow it. Google and Facebook have the cookies blocked but all the other 7 trackers are completely banned from accessing me. It works well and I don't get pop ups unless I want them. None here at least or eBay or SF and MCP also.
