

Early Majorette caravan?

Posted by Andy66 - 11 May 2014 06:23

I bought this a couple of weeks ago & appears to be an early Majorette model of a caravan. It is marked n the base Majorette no.15 Sterkaman Lovely it is plastic with a metal base . I started buying Majorettes as a child in the mid 70's , I have not seen this one before.

=====

Re: Early Majorette caravan?

Posted by RVREVO - 27 May 2014 03:53

Maybe we should do 50 different trailers of Majorette thread, and then comparing those 50 trailers to the much smaller amount of matchbox and siku.

Shall we begin?

=====

Re: Early Majorette caravan?

Posted by jclevering - 27 May 2014 15:56

Let me just check what I have... I can think of 25 SIKU one already...

=====

Re: Early Majorette caravan?

Posted by Andy66 - 15 Apr 2016 16:24

I got these few Majorettes today. The interesting thing is that the chrysler 180 was the first Majorette model i bought back in the late 70's , it was orange & had the realistic type wheel which was made to look like it had wheel nuts & looked like a wheel.

=====

Re: Early Majorette caravan?

Posted by GunnerJim - 15 Apr 2016 17:37

Did that debate about the origins of those hubs and tires was resolved on the early Majorette Caravan at the start of these postings.

=====

Re: Early Majorette caravan?

Posted by Andy66 - 16 Apr 2016 08:19

That was the early type wheels, the wheels I refer to here are the mid 70's type, if I find one here with the wheels I will put picture on

=====

Re: Early Majorette caravan?

Posted by GunnerJim - 16 Apr 2016 16:30

If I remember correctly back in the early 1980s our local chemist shop sold them. I ended up buying some for my children, while today in life, I cannot remember what type of wheels they had although I think they may have been plastic.

=====